The New York Store THREE LEADERS WIN Established 1853.

The Reason for It

Where there is anything unusual there must be a reason for it. The reason the pr.ces are so low is because a manufacturer did not want to close down during the dull season, so he made this lot for us at cost. Did you ever see prices like these in

PLAYING CARDS TAX

LARGE SALE OF STAMPS AT LOCAL INTERNAL REVENUE OFFICE.

Indianapolis Factory Will Pay Over $10,000 a Year Under the New Tariff Law.

The internal revenue office is taking in considerable money every day now from wholesale and retail dealers in playing cards. Each deck must bear a 2-cent stamp, under the tariff act which has just become a law, and P. J. Ryan, who has charge of the revenue office here, has received about $2,600 thus far in payment of 130,000 stamps. | 2.500. Score: A $50 fine is imposed by the new law for every unstamped deck of cards sold.

After the wholesalers and retailers have sold all they now have on hand the factories will do the stamping. The National Card Company's Indianapolis branch turns out about 530,000 decks annually, and will thus pay between $10,000 and $11,000 every year into the internal revenue office here. The Cincinnati branch manufactures 2,000,-000 decks annually, and the revenue department in that city will be enriched $40,-000 each year. The company's Brooklyn branch puts 200,000 decks on the market, being the smallest output of any of the card company's manufactories. "This new card tax will do away with all five-cent cards," said Charles Mayer, wholesale dealer in novelties. "I am told." he continued, "that last year there were 47,000,000 packs manufactured in America. Thirty million of these sold for 5 cents a pack, I have been informed. Now this 2-cent tax will not only curtail the use of cards, but it will stop the sale of cheap carus. It is said by some dealers that the tax scheme was fathered by the card manufacturers. I cannot vouch for that, but I know that manufacturers have been making but small profits on the cheap cards, For years we have been buying at $3.25 a gross. This is 27 cents for a dozen packs. It is not improbable that card manufacturers would favor a scheme by which the sale of these cheap cards would be done away with. Hereafter the cheapest card will sell at 10 certs a pack. The raise in price goes into immediate effect, of course. The tax will not affect the higher priced goods. Yesterday morning I had on hand 18,000 packs of playing cards, for which I at once paid a duty of $363.22. I understand that the branch factory of the Russell & Morgan Card Company, located here, paid yesterday between $8,000 and $10,000 on the stock they had on hands.'

The manager of the wholesale house of Kipp Bros., in commenting upon the card tax, said: "Our house is not overstocked in this line. In anticipation of the tax we allowed the stock to run down. Besides, for the last few weeks some manufacturers have declined to fill large orders in this line. They expected that a tax would be levied upon their goods, and did not desire to take chances in making large sales. On the other hand, a great many of the Eastern manufacturers have for a month been closing out their goods." HAD HIS WIFE ARRESTED.

A Case from Hartford City Handled by

Superintendent of Police Powell's office was the scene yesterday afternoon of an interesting meeting. Those present, beside the superintendent, were Mr. and Mrs. Shunk, Lulu Lowe, aged eighteen years, and her father, all of Hartford City. Some time ago the Lowe girl came to this city and became an inmate of a resort on West Washington street, as she stated yesterday, on account of mistreatment by her parents. She said they did not furnish her with the garments she wanted and subjected her to childish treatment. On resenting it she said her father flew into a rage and moved from where they were living at that time to another part of the city and left her in the empty house with nothing to eat. With money which she had saved she came to this city and led a low life, but about a month ago she returned home, as she claimed, because she was homesick. Last Monday, in company with Mrs.

Shunk, who believed her husband was not devoted to her, she came to this city, both going to the resort. Mrs. Shunk's hus-band and the young girl's father believed that Mrs. Shunk had enticed the Lowe girl to come to this city, and, desiring to have the law handle them at Hartford City, swore out warrants for their arrest. The warrants were sent here and served by patrolman Leppert. The husband and father came to this city and met the women in the superintendent's office. Mr. Lowe and his daughter acted coldly toward each other, while Mrs. Shunk burst into tears and said she was truly penitent. Her husband said he had no money with him and asked Superintendent Powell's permission to sleep at the police station. His wife exhibited a purse which was well filled and stated that as soon as she was tried and had paid her fine she would have plenty to get them back to

A Lad's Ambition Checked. The police received a telegram last night from the marshal of Middletown asking that Ira Yates, aged fifteen years, who was expected to arrive in this city on a Big Four train from Anderson shortly after 11, be detained. The boy was on the train and Sergeant Barlow took him to the police station. Yates said he left home yesterday because his parents refused to allow him certain privileges and walked to Anderson, where he took the train for this city. He said he intended to go to Louisville to start out in life for himself. A telegram was sent to Middletown stating that he was in custody.

HER SKULL CRUSHED

EMMA STEWART KILLED IN A COM-MERCIAL CLUB ELEVATOR.

Run the Freight Lift to Top Floor of Building.

Mrs. Emma Stewart, a young colored woman living with her husband at No. 239 South Capitol avenue, attempted to jump from a freight elevator in the Commercial Club Building, yesterday evening, and was instantly killed. The accident happened between 5 and 6 o'clock, while there were few people in the building. The only witnesses to the distressing affair were the woman's mother and a younger sister, but both were so prostrated by the sight that they were unable to give an intelligible account of the accident. The woman was crushed to death while riding upon the freight elevator, an apparatus which is only used by the employes of the building. Mrs. Stewart, with her mother and sister, was ascending to the restaurant, on the eighth floor of the building, and the three were operating the elevator alone. From the statement of the mother it appears that they were instructed to take passage upon the freight elevator, which is really little more than an ordinary "lift," constructed solely for the purpose of transferring freight to the upper floors. Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Stewart, with her mother and sister, set out to look for employment, but at 5 o'clock had met with no success. Knowing of the large restaurant in the Commercial Club Building, they decided to make one more effort before going home. They passed in at the Meridian-street entrance to the building and inquired for the restaurant. Instead of taking one of the two passenger elevators that ply regularly between the ground and top floors of the building, the women walked to the rear of the corridor and stepped on to the freight elevator. They waited a moment, and, seeing no one who could take charge of the apparatus, one of the women pulled the rope that releases the machinery, and the elevator started upward. The movement of the machinery was radual and smooth enough and the women felt no alarm until the elevator had passed the sixth floor. As it approached the seventh Mrs. Stewart cried out to her mother, "Mama, we are too high," and made an attempt to jump from the platform. She was prevented from this by the drop-gate or iron bar that extends across the lift. Her head struck the bar and she was knocked down. At the same moment her younger sister prepared to jump, but was caught by her mother and held back. Then, unnerved and frightened by the actions of her daughters, the mother lost her wits. She only remembers hearing a cry of agony from the elder girl and of the elevator coming to a standstill at the eighth floor. She saw the mangled and crushed of Mrs. Stewart protruding from between the elevator and wall of the shaftway, but could not realize how the accident had happened. In wild frenzy the poor woman attempted to draw the body of her daughter from its position and was screaming with terror when H. E. Heine, manager of the restaurant, appeared, Mr. Heine was in his office on the eighth floor when he heard the elevator ascending, but paid no attention to it. He caught the sound of a woman's augh, and almost the next instant the death cry. He ran from his office, but was unfortunate woman jammed into five inches of space presented a shocking sight. The restaurant manager hastily summoned assistance and lowered the elevator a sufficient distance to remove the body of the dead woman. Dr. Hoskins, of the City Dispensary, came and examined the body before it was yet cold. The head was bad-ly crushed and the body was bruised and crushed. The physician said that death had been instantaneous. The employes of the building were puzzled as to the manner in which the woman met her death. An examination of the wall just below the seventh floor disclosed one or two places where the plastering had been broken. It is the theory of those in the building at the time of the accident that the woman was stunned by the blow on the head when she attempted to jump, and in falling was caught between the elevator and the wall of the shaft. The mother of Mrs. Stewart claims that she was instructed to take the freight eleva-tor by an employe of the building. She says that when she and her daughter entered the building they stepped up to the passenger elevator, but a young man who appeared to be in charge informed them that only the freight elevator reached the restaurant. Manager Heine heard the woman's story and attempted to find the man who had directed her to the freight elevator. He was unsuccessful, and stated last night that he did not believe the unknown person was an employe of the building. The body of the unfortunate woman was removed to Flanner & Buchanan's morgue, where it was examined by Coroner Beck. The dead woman was but nine-teen years of age. The management of the Commercial Club says that none but employes are permitted to use the freight elevator, and they cannot understand how it was that the three colored women were wrongly directed.

Wanted the Crew Arrested.

A dispatch was received by Superintendent Powell yesterday morning from the marshal of Sydney, O., asking him to arrest conductor McLaughlin and crew of train No. 43 on the Cleveland division of the Big Four on charges of murder. After an exchange of telegrams the superintendent failed to be informed as to the circumstances in the case. Superintendent Van Winkle, of the Big Four, said he knew nothing that had happened for which the crew could be arrested, but through his special telegraph operator it was learned hat yesterday morning about 1 o'clock as the train was passing through Sydney an unknown tramp was killed while attempt-ing to board the train. A farmer saw the man killed and reported it in such a man-ner to the marshal that the latter decided the crew was guilty of a grave crime. The men were not arrested.

The G. A. R. "Headquarters" Train. G. A. R. Department Commander A. O. Marsh, of Winchester, was in the city yesterday making arrangements for the departure of the "headquarters" train of the G. A. THE NEW TARIFF CAUSING MUCH TROUBLE AT CUSTOMS HOUSES.

Many Protests Filed by Brokers at New York-Sec. 5 Worrying Collector Phelps-Sugar Bounty Claims.

NEW YORK, Aug 29.-The applications for withdrawals yesterday at the custom house in this city because of the new tariff law numbered about two thousand. The receipts at the end of the day were something like $1,000,000. Everything worked smoothly. The day before the McKinley bill became a law $2,500,000 were taken in. Many protests have been filed by the brokers with the law division because of the workings of the new law. When the McKinley bill was passed five months' time was allowed the brokers in which to arrange matters for their customers. In this instance they were given scarcely fortyeight hours' notice and are expected to accomplish as much in that time as they did under the McKinley law. Deputy Collector Phelps said he feared that Section 5 of the new law was going to cause a deal of trouble. "You see, it provides that all articles brought into this country," said he, "must be marked or branded in legible English words in a manner so as to indicate the country of their origin and the quantity of their contents. If not properly marked the contents must be reexamined and re-appraised. This means that all quart bottles of wine will have to be reappraised, for a quart bottle of wine never contains more than a fifth of a gallon. Then, again, if a house be consigned five hundred dozen needles and there should be one needle more or less, according to Section 5 we will have to go over that case of needles to get the thing straight. The result will be the greatest confusion and business will be brought to a standstill." Thus far, however, every-thing has gone smoothly. It is expected that the receipts will be about $1,000,000 a day for some time now, until an immense quantity of goods has been released from bond. General business of the custom house will be augmented again in a few days when the ships from foreign ports which have sailed since the Gorman bill passed the House begin to arrive. Many protests have been entered by importers who paid duties between Aug. 7 and Aug. 28. The bill became a law on Aug. 28, but it orders a change of duties on Aug. 7. The importers claim that they are entitled to a refund of difference between the duties they paid and those of the new law. The matter will be carried into the courts.

Filed Cannot Be Paid. WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.-The Secretary of the Treasury has decided that under the terms of the new tariff bill payments of sugar bounties on claims already filed cannot be legally made. Section 1082 of the new act provides, among other things, that "hereafter it shall be unlawful to issue any license to produce sugar or to pay any bounty for the production of sugar of any kind under the act approved Oct. 1, 1890." It is not denied that persons who have filed claims for sugar produced during the last year may have a just claim against the government, the only contention being that under the terms of the new law it is made illegal for the Secretary to pay them. Even if the claims have been allowed by the department they cannot be lowed by the department they cannot be liguldated. It is presumed, however, that all producers having claims for bounty will prosecute them in the Court of Claims.

Germans Offended.

LONDON, Aug. 30 .- The Standard's correspondent at Berlin says: The new American tariff law gives umbrage in Germany, especially the proviso which increases the duty on sugar from countries giving bounties. This change is felt more keenly here, as the amount of increase is the same for all bounty-giving countries, regardless of the amount of the bounties. The effect of this, according to German opinion, will not be to induce such countries to abolish the bounties, as the American Senate wishes, but, on the contrary, to raise them. The correspondent adds: "I hear that the Minister for Foreign Affairs is about to enter into negotiations with United States Embassador Runyon in relation to certain points of the tariff affecting Germany,"

WHAT A PROMINENT DRUGGIST SAYS.

THORNTOWN, Ind., April 1, 1894

Lyon Medicine Co., Indianapolis, Ind.: My experience with Lyon's "Seven Wonders" justifies me in saying that it is a health restorer of the highest degree. Last January, after having La Grippe, I was left in that weakened condition which so commonly followed that disease. After trying remedies without any relief, I commenced taking "Lyon's Seven Wonders," one after each meal, and the third box had completely restored my health. I now feel better than I have for years This remedy does certainly give new life and vigor to the entire system. I can cheerfully recommend it.

IMPARTIAL CROP REPORTS.

Gage, of Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29 .- President Lyman J. Gage, of the First National Bank, has received reports on the condition of the crops from nearly every county in the States of Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska and North and South Dakota. These reports were made by bankers in the several counties and are believed to be absolutely impartial and accurate. The reports of the condition of the crops from the government and other sources were so conflicting that President Gage determined to have a canvass made himself for the guidance of his bank. The States of Indiana, Ohio and Missouri were not covered, as all agree that the yields in those States will be above the average, though there will be bare spots in some localities.

Mr. Gage's conclusions from the reports is that there will be suffering in western Kansas and Nebraska where the crops practically have been a total failure, and the farmers will require assistance from the outside to enable them to get through the winter. In other parts where there is from half to two-thirds of a crop, the increased prices which the farmers will receive for their products will compensate for the shortage and everybody will get along very comfortably. The short crops will offset to some degree, Mr. Gage thinks, the beneficial results in the revival of business which might be expected by a settlement of the tariff question by limiting the demand for merchandise owing to the curtailing of the purchasing power of the farmer in some sections, but altogether, he thinks this will be a fairly prosperous year.
